A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

They put my garments among them, and set up, upon my verdure... —Ps. 139:17

The robe of Christ was not a worthless rag; it was woven especially for Christ's wearers. It was a gift of a wealthy deity. Too valuable to let go of any creature who had thus been crucified to him.

SHORT STORY

The Young
Old Folks

by Matthew F. Christopher

"PHEER!" Dave said. "The colleg's finished. Now you've got new shoes, new walls in the living room and bedroom, and a new porch." He lifted his chin defiantly, and something like a cold plaid entered his brown eyes as he gazed down at his mother.

"Lifting else you going to do?"
Dorilla glanced at him warily, dashed his arm. "There!" She sounded in weak, like a child.
His mother stared up at him with a soft frown burning in her cheeks.
She was so short, thought Dorilla,
so small against her son.

"What's the matter? Dad and I—we were talking about putting in a new kitchen floor, too."

Dave shook his head. "There you go! Ever since you bought this place that's all you and Dad have been doing—fixing and fixing. For a couple of old people you're eating up my money around."

"I'm only fifty-five," said his father, looking sadly at his son, old black-haired pipe.
"You're hunched over." "Wall Don't you think that's getting bad?"

"They asked together through a mail reported their home from Dave's father. He took a nap, and Dorilla, who had been sitting out of the kitchen door and across the field to Mother and Dad Patrol."

"I don't have anything to do," she explained, "so I thought I'd come back and visit you." Dave Mother said why wasn't you in a new kitchen floor. What then? Dad?

"Oh, so Mother did not mean that. We just want to see the old man, then put on his old hood-leeked pipe. She left soon, for fear Dave would get up and not find her there.

"When he woke there was still time to get up and not find her there.
The road down toward the lake,"
he said. "We haven't seen the Arling's so long! And Mrs. Arling has been so sweet to me!"

"O, DORILLA — a s s s Dave it's so good to see you!"
They followed the house. John is back there, working on the terrace.
"They followed her. Dorilla saw her and stared suspiciously at the varicolored fagstone that made up the terrace. At one corner, which was not quite finished, a miniature figure dashed with a towel. He looked up, his feet dashed in a scold. "Right!" he exclaimed. "Look who's here! How are you, Dorilla? Dave? My you're both looking so young you

NEW DRESS FOR GUARD'S PIPE BAND . . . Col
William Stirling, left, of Petawawa, and Pipe Major Archie Cairns of Hamilton, Ont., 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards Pipe Band, model new full dress uniforms for wear by pipers of the regiment. The wearing of the Royal Stuart tartan in the kilt and plaid was approved by HM The Queen some time ago. The kilt is unique inasmuch as it is pleated in black to show the tartan's darker colours. Your black tams on the white horse hair sporran represent the regiment's four battalions.
The headdress is of black ostrich feathers with a red, white and blue duced band, similar to that worn by the Scots Guards Regiment. A red and white plume is worn on the left side of the bonnet. Only the 2nd and 4th Battalions of the Regiment of Canadian Guards have pipe bands.

Pioneer Settler, Guide Marks 96th Birthday

Haliburton (PNS) — Mr. William Gregory has celebrated his 96th birthday and many of his friends and relatives called to pay their respects to him, who was born in this town of Haliburton county.

Mr. Gregory lives with his daughter, Mrs. W. G. Gifford, and some time ago he slipped on some ice on his way to work and since then he had trouble getting around. He is now quite comfortable, but a year ago, when he was in Haliburton nearly a century, he had been a great operator and was for many years a farmer, guide, he knows every stream, lake and river in the Highlands of Haliburton. During the winter months he follows the furrows of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mr. Gregory lived in Haliburton for many years on a once cultivated farm site, time has been so fast that he has been in the early days of his quiet life.

The Lindsay Library Board has announced that its Seventh Annual Art Exhibit will be held in two weeks time. "Doing the Job," a bookman told "The Post," three pictures will be chosen by the board and the artist will be forwarded and included in the Twentieth Exhibition for Ontario Amateur Art, which will commence in Port Hope and travel through Eastern Ontario.

Questioned about the objectives of the exhibit, the board stated it was to provide, indirectly, to create a wide-spread community interest in all forms of art and to encourage the people to recognize painting as a recreation for leisure time. It is to assist, to educate and to encourage the people in the development of their own art activities, to foster the advancement of those individuals already engaged in the development of their art, to develop greater standards of painting and of art appreciation throughout the area.

Lowly Broom Now $16 Million Canadian Industry

Broom corn is graded according to quality and length of fibre by a workman in a Norwich, Ontario, broom factory. Cheapest quality is made into house brooms, heavier, coarser fibres find their way into warehouse brooms. This factory, largest in the British Empire, makes every type, from children's miniatures to curling brooms.

B.C. fir and Quebec maple wood go into making of broom handles. Handles must be straight, free of bleaches, tough and without splinters. Wood is kiln dried and sanded. Here, machine operator sends broom handles through apparatus which automatically applies clac, quick-drying lacquer.

Broom fibres are fed into machine which wire-winds them onto broom handle. Five different lengths of broom corn fibres are required; outer edges take the longer fibres, with shorter lengths fed next to handle. Final touch is added by a workman who folds in a strip of velveteen or coloured melt to cover stub ends.

Racks of brooms are shown being brought to stitching room, where intricate machines sew 40 brooms per hour. Giant needles are automatically thrust through corn to bind the fibres tightly with coloured twine. When a broom has been stitched securely into shape, a touched machine strips it of faulty and loose fibres.

Probably the most familiar of all household objects, the lowly broom has a long history dating back to primitive man. Missionaries and traders from earliest times discovered natives sweeping their huts with twigs tied to a stick by a piece of bark. From this early beginning the making of brooms has evolved into a manufacturing process that today, in Canada, involves the skills of thousands of workers in factories, forest and farm. Despite the popularity of the modern vacuum cleaner, the production of brooms is a $16.5 million industry, with 92 Canadian factories engaged in turning out everything from children's miniature sweepers to the specialized curling brooms.

Old Landmark Being Replaced

Work will be starting on a new slaughter house in Little Italy, Ontario. The old one, has been a landmark for over 100 years having been moved from one side of the village to the other.

Mr. Stettin, the owner, says that the old one is too small for his big cattle and he will be capable of handling all the requirements. He said that the new slaughter house will be improved with electric hoists, refrigeration, deep-freeze automatic water supply and other modern equipment. It will more than comply with all the latest sanitary regulations and should be the most modern in the province.

County Court of Revision Is Advocated

To Overcome Alleged Vote-catching Tactics

In County Council on Friday afternoon, the County Court of Revision was discussed by the County Council.

Reverend Father, who appointed a County Assessor last summer to equalize the assessment, when changes are made in the upward trend, no doubt there will be dissatisfaction. Many will want the old system where courts of revision are in every municipality, village, etc.

From my experience, these local Courts of revision have in the past been used to catch the many injustices to secure votes. The Court of Revision would be a good idea to see the County Assessor's ideas work but if he is not backed up by a good assessor, it will not work.

Mr. Hill in addressing the County Council, he said that he had been asked to see the County Assessor's ideas work but if he is not backed up by a good assessor, it will not work.

Widow-Peering Man CHASED DOWN STREET, RESIDENT TELLS PRESS

Lindsay's "Prowler" has been active again recently.

This was learned Friday from a Cleng St. E. resident who told "The Post" that he had seen the prowler has been seen peering through windows and, in one case, was chased down the street by one of the residents.

One night this past week, a man, whose description tallied with that given out by police earlier, was seen by the Cleng St. E. resident who happened to be out in his garage at the time. It is reported that the prowler came into the driveway and was peering through a side window.

He was seen to be looking into the house and began to lean through a kitchen window.

It is feared that the husband, who was not home, was in danger. The man is alleged to have eyed the house and was seen to be looking into the house.

RABIES Symptoms in the Dog

In the furthest type excitement occurs at the onset and the animal may become frenzied and the voice become altered, strange howls or cries may be emitted. Ferociousness is also very evident. During this stage the animal is very likely to travel considerable distances, and as it is prone, at this time, to attack moving objects, any animal that crosses its path will be killed. The period of excitement lasts for three or four days and the end of this time paralytic symptoms appear which are followed by death.

The dumb form is characterized by a partial paralysis of the lower jaw with protrusion of the tongue and excessive salivation with inability to swallow. The animal possesses a wild, vacant look, and, as in the previous form, these symptoms are followed by complete paralysis and death.

and a man who is weary" through this district, says this is a year-round task and a round-the-clock job." Mr. Neill, who has been prominent in education circles for many years, has submitted an article on "Education Week" to "The Post" in which he sets forth these thoughts in part:

Salience and Reformation in Education Needed

Education Week is comparatively new among the special weeks, months and years man in all ages and places dedicated to some specific endeavor.

Already there are signs of dangers that beset such con-

[illegible]

direction, what progress has been made? The insurance and reinsurance that will — even better than ever — come from the higher command and greeted with many aye-ayes, ears and hear-hears from the rank and file.

But under cover of what is called unanimity, many a man may note significant silences, suggestions of sullen conformity, the unavowable on the lips of the unconnected and reliable body of the teaching union who are far from happy present day trends.

It may be that nowhere, somewhere, education's potential will be mobilized in an Education that will be prolonged into the future.

It seems time for a renascence of education in America. Perhaps some Education West where will touch it off. That is the greatest contribution we can make to education. We could make it education.

For small plantings, but smaller ones. That way you can make space yet get the most variety. Veggies are easy to grow. And you save water, seed, plant food and water. Watered can't be overwatered while late head varieties may take 90 days to mature. Early varieties will be ready at the same time,

What vegetables do you need, and how much of each? The hardiest crops from the seed catalog showing will last in top condition for a year or more. The early carrots two feet long will provide an ample serving for the average family to go on as long as carrots 32 feet long will provide 4 servings or two per week.

Peas, lettuce, radishes and spinach will be fairly good in a second sowing, timed to mature in mid-July. The early beans are sown; the early peas are sown; the early carrots are sown; and the early lettuce is sown. How can YOU benefit from having a Current Account?

You'll find it much easier to keep an accurate record of your current expenses when you have a Current Account.

When you pay all bills by cheque on your Current Account, you receive back, at the end of each month, all your canceled checks as well as a bank statement showing every withdrawal and every deposit you have made. The cancelled checks serve as receipts—and are accepted in court as evidence of payment of the amount shown. Furthermore, they are much easier to file away than receipts and take less room to store. With them and your bank statements, you'll find it far easier to get an exact picture of how you spend your money.

So it's a good move to use a Current Account for paying all current bills—and keep your Savings Account for actual savings.

A week later on Saturday night, Andy stopped by at Seth Lancer's store to see Seth on a matter of business. A couple of boys from his home were there, drinking at the bar. Moments later, talking with Seth, he heard a rumour out there. Investigating he discovered that two boys were engaged in a brawl with three from the Bar V. castle ranch. Andy stood by and watched a while. Others joined in. It began to look as though the place would be wrecked. Andy got out of there.

Lennie heard about it the next day. That settled things for her.

Andy had sensitive eyes and delicate hands but Lennie knew and wasn't a waster of power. Power was his. He loved him. It wasn't until after they were married that she discovered he was a physical coward.

She found out the night of Brenda Brown's engagement party. The drink was there. As she sat in the bar, she was a handsome devil, that Tony, his and Brenda's old friend. He had been Lennie's heart, faith and she would have married him if it weren't for his drinking.

The first thing Tony saw when he came through the door was Lennie and Andy dancing together. A crowd, around the floor, then he laughed. When they whirled past he stepped up and wheeled Andy into the back.

"Tony, cut it," he grunted. "Make way for a man."

Lennie looked. Andy hadn't looked at Tony, then they spun by. "Tony, cut it," he said. "Your drink, Tony." As soon as he did, without appearing too obvious, she asked Andy to take her home. There she stood. "Andy, did you let him insult you? Oh, the shame of it! Andy was started and howled. "Let who insult me, honey? What?" he stared at him. "Tony Smith of course!" was never so humiliated in his life.

Bible Thoughts

And if I be lifted up I will draw unto me all men. —John 12:32
Christ's glorious disciples thought on the cross. Christ knew that was the easy way to glory eternally. The cross that saved man and set free.

If you think of them with Christ, we're things things that are above. —Col. 3:1
The economy of baptism illustrated the death of sin and rising again in Christ's purity. It is not the water that purifies, but the faith that gives substance to that.

Thank me, I am. —Psalm 138:6
It is sometimes hard to desire what is God's will for us. We should be eager to know just what it is and follow it. We will not be less angry.

A. O. Fisher back with Mr. Ernie and a son. —John 3:1
If our eyes are blinded we should bear God's commandments. We will not be less angry.

Quotable Quote
"In our daily spiritual attitude, turning our work toward God, we should be eager to know just what it is and follow it. We will not be less angry."

U.S. Army's Horse Cavalry Experimenting With 'Sky Cavalry'

The U.S. Army's Cavalry, already minus horses, is taking to the sky. Troopers will ride on 'copters but the new 'helicopters' will still resemble horses in such aspects as the saddle seat. The Pentagon recently established a new branch, the Army Aviation Division, to develop secret combat tactics using 'copters and other aircraft. The army's existing divisions, the 11th and the 82nd, are experimenting with "sky cavalry". In this photo an artist gives his concept of flying cavalry landing an attack. Those "helitroopers" give back the mobility of reconnaissance and screening elements protecting front and flank lost with the passing of the horse cavalry.

Boatwain of the Soviet freighter Krymlov is pulled ashore in rubber raft after the ship ran on rocks near Aberdeen, Scotland. The crew refused all offers of assistance for more than 14 hours. They ignored life-boat lines run out to the ship and even failed to reply when asked if they wanted a tug to pull the vessel off. The stubborn Russians finally accepted lifeboat aid and came ashore.

Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. gets a big kiss from his wife after he was found guilty of a conspiracy to boycott Montgomery city buses.

ALL IN OUR TIME... Man's conception of the serving soldier has changed much in the past few years. He is no longer merely a "man-with-a-musket" but a highly trained technician handling the advanced equipment of today's mechanized army. Keeping pace with changing conditions, the Canadian Army has held its place among nations of the world in the design and development of weapons and equipment. Among modern items of equipment in use are (above): (1) The recently adopted C1 automatic rifle. (2) Durable, light aluminum snowshoes important in northern defence. (3) The army's newest and most powerful "tank killer"—The Heller,

(4) The Cassia L19A used as a liaison and spotter aircraft. (5) The simulated atomic bomb training device. (6) The "Night", newest version of the snowmobile. (7) A more rugged field telephone with increased performance, now in large scale production. (8) A comparison of the old and new parachute. The new chute, right, cuts down percentage of possible casualties in paratroops. (9) The first army-development postwar ratio set, in forward areas, where noise could mean life or death. The soft whisper can be transmitted with excellent reception. (National Defence Photo)

Acting Up at the Dinner Table

AFTER the moose has been consumed and everyone is in the mood for some gentle giggles, it's time to try this trick: The performer takes an apple or grape seed from the bowl on the table. (If none is available, takes the seed from his own pocket.) Pouring a glass of water, he adds water until he drops the seed into it, and it quickly sinks to the bottom. Now he announces the seed is rising and it does so immediately. The performer waves his hand over the water and the seed rises—only to rise to the surface again at the performer's command. The seed is at risk all but just not act on the part of the trickster, for while the performer of course wishes the seed to rise, it resists his motions to comply with those of the seed.

BEST CUSTOMER

THE STEEL INDUSTRIES' best customer is the farmer.

Directly, the farmer as an individual is a buyer of steel and on the farmer's property rests the prosperity of the farm implement business, which is one of the three Canadian industries using the most steel.

The two other largest direct customers of the steel industry are the railway and the automotive industry. These also are largely dependent on the farmer's property. Moving crops to market is the part of railway business on which nearly all the rest is based.

Motor vehicles owned by the farmer or by other people moving footcandle account for a large part of the total automotive business.

Because it is in the steel industry's interests that the farmer have profitable crops, the industry must try to keep down the costs of steel products the farmer must buy. This company is constantly acquiring new facilities to produce more steel for more people.
